

METHODS AND APPARATUS FOR SWITCHING
FREQUENCY RIPPLE REDUCTION IN COILS

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method of operating a system having a coil includes providing a switched amplified current to the coil, and adding a second current to the switched amplified current, wherein the second current is substantially out of phase with the switched amplified current such that the coil receives current with substantially no switching frequency ripple.